Technical Overview

- Delegate migration plan management based on administrative role
- Scan source content prior to migration to identify the scope of migration, and detect any illegal characters, user permissions, user names, user domains, and other elements that must be mapped in order to migrate successfully into SharePoint Server or SharePoint Online
- Selectively migrate content according to business needs with granular content selection and customizable filtering options based on content properties, and perform test runs to validate migration plan configuration
- Provide Dynamic Rule creation based on out-of-the-box interfaces to customize mappings and filter policies that meet specific business needs, including creating nonexistent managed metadata in the destination
- Support Security Trimming to empower eligible users to perform migration within allowed scope
- Support flexible Managed Metadata migration by providing three different options for users to decide whether to migrate the entire associated Managed Metadata Services, the related term sets and all of the terms in these term sets, or the terms and their parents associated directly with the source node
- Perform full and subsequent incremental migrations to keep network bandwidth resources optimized, only migrating content that has been updated since the last migration
- Migrate into pre-created sites, or create sites on-the-fly
- Preserve all metadata – including security settings, attributes, and properties – with full fidelity, utilizing customizable mappings to properly represent legacy elements and quickly take advantage of SharePoint's features
- Migrate online over existing networks, or offline to securely migrate data across firewalls
- Keep source and destination environments in sync with customizable scheduling to minimize business disruption during the course of the migration project

*For migrating content within or across SharePoint environments of the same version, use DocAve Content Manager.
