

AvePoint and doculation Forge Partnership

Alliance formed to provide customers with industry-leading Enterprise Content Management and SharePoint infrastructure Management solutions and services

Jersey City, NJ, U.S.A, and Munich, Germany - March 6, 2009 — AvePoint, the leading provider of infrastructure management software solutions for Microsoft® SharePoint, and doculation, Germany's premiere enterprise content management (ECM) consulting firm, today announced a partnership for the purpose of delivering full-spectrum data protection, administration, migration, and enterprise content management solutions to customers running SharePoint. Combining doculation's expertise in the field of information lifecycle management and AvePoint's award-winning software solutions for SharePoint administration, data protection, compliance, replication, deployment management and migration, this complementary partnership will provide customers with unparalleled service and support as they deploy SharePoint as an ECM and collaboration platform.

"We are very excited to partner with doculation", said Dr. Tianyi (TJ) Jiang, AvePoint's Chief Operating Officer. "Our goal is to provide customers the products and services they need to fully leverage SharePoint for business success. By teaming up with doculation - one of the most highly regarded and successful content management consultants in Europe – customers will have access to not only best-of-breed products like DocAve, but best-in-class ECM services as well."

As a result of this strategic partnership, AvePoint and doculation will collaborate regularly to ensure clients are appraised of – and can experience firsthand – AvePoint's technological strength in the areas of SharePoint backup & recovery, administration, geo-replication, deployment management, high availability, archiving, compliance, and migration. Leveraging AvePoint's powerful DocAve Software Platform, doculation consultants can ensure their client's SharePoint deployments are secure, compliant, highly reliable, and fully optimised enterprise content management systems.

"As our customers increasingly turn to SharePoint as their primary digital asset repository, the need for both a comprehensive management and full fidelity, item through platform-level backup & recovery solution has been in high demand," said Ingo Harpel, Director Product Management and Services at doculation. "We wanted to offer our customers the industry's most powerful and flexible solutions, and that led us to AvePoint's DocAve Software Platform. In AvePoint we get a partner highly experienced and very well regarded in the SharePoint space."
