

AvePoint Named to KMWorld magazine's "100 Companies that Matter in Knowledge Management"

The list, now in its tenth year, selects the top 100 global companies serving and advancing the field of knowledge management

Jersey City, NJ — March 16, 2010 — AvePoint, the leading provider of infrastructure management software solutions for Microsoft SharePoint, today announced that it has been named to KMWorld magazine's "100 Companies that Matter in Knowledge Management" for 2010. This list recognizes solution providers who are delivering world-class technology to meet the knowledge management needs of organizations worldwide. Joining AvePoint on the list for 2010 are other global technology innovators such as Microsoft, Oracle, and Salesforce.com.

"We are honored to be named to KMWorld's '100 Companies that Matter in Knowledge Management'", said Dr. Tianyi (TJ) Jiang, AvePoint's Chief Operating Officer. "As companies attempt to deal with ever growing stores of digital information, geo-distributed workforces, and expanding networks of customers, partners, and vendors, knowledge management remains an exciting and challenging space. For organizations to fully embrace SharePoint as their primary KM platform, they must be confident that SharePoint is fully protected, securely managed, totally optimized, and efficiently scalable. Since our founding, AvePoint's primary objective has been to help organizations meet their key SharePoint infrastructure management needs, so they may more fully embrace the platform as their unified knowledge management tool. Being named to KMWorld magazine's top 100 list is not only an incredible honor, but also confirms for us that we continue to make progress towards achieving this primary objective."
