

AvePoint[®] and CorasWorks Forge Technical Partnership

Partnership will streamline technical collaboration between companies in the further development of complementary SharePoint infrastructure management and productivity products

Jersey City, N.J. (PRWEB) November 3, 2009 — AvePoint, the leading provider of infrastructure management software solutions for Microsoft[®] SharePoint[®], today announced a technical partnership with CorasWorks Corporation, a leading provider of applications and application development tools for Microsoft SharePoint. Through this new partnership, AvePoint and CorasWorks will work together to ensure their products are mutually supported and co-marketed throughout the SharePoint community as delivering a robust productivity and management solution set for organizations running SharePoint.

“We are very excited to partner with CorasWorks”, said Dr. Tianyi (TJ) Jiang, chief operating officer at AvePoint. “With its Workplace Suite and Data Integration Toolset, CorasWorks is delivering the kind of time-saving productivity tools that organizations need to truly leverage SharePoint for success. As leaders in the SharePoint infrastructure management space, AvePoint’s goal is to partner with market leaders with proven track records, and this is certainly the case here. As a result of this partnership, our engineering and customer activation teams will work together very closely to ensure our products complement and support each other fully.”

AvePoint is the maker of the industry’s most powerful and flexible infrastructure management solutions for SharePoint, delivering the tools organizations need to robustly protect, efficiently manage, and fully optimize their deployments. Its flagship product, the DocAve Software Platform, offers 24 independently-deployable modules for SharePoint backup and recovery, administration, storage optimization, replication, archiving, auditing, reporting, compliance, and migration.

CorasWorks is a global leader in applications and application development tools that drive immediate business value on Microsoft SharePoint. Organizations can download, use, and customize plug-and-play apps from CorasWorks and its partners, or build their own applications without the cost and complexity of custom code using our point-and-click development and integration tools.

“AvePoint is the leader in its space and one of the leading ISVs on the Microsoft SharePoint platform,” said Gary Voight, President and CEO of CorasWorks. “Our partnership is a natural fit. Their infrastructure management tools, combined with our applications and application development tools, create a very powerful and comprehensive solution for organizations using SharePoint. We are excited by the opportunities this relationship offers to both our technical and go-to-market teams.”
