

SharePoint MVP Jeremy Thake Joins AvePoint as Enterprise Architect

Thake, a prominent Microsoft technologies expert with more than 10 years of software development experience, will provide thought leadership within the global SharePoint community and continue building solutions addressing crucial enterprise business challenges

Jersey City, NJ — May 10, 2011 — AvePoint, a proven leader in providing infrastructure management software solutions for Microsoft SharePoint, today announced the addition of SharePoint MVP Jeremy Thake as AvePoint's Enterprise Architect. In his new role, Thake will educate the global SharePoint community, as well as work directly with enterprise customers and AvePoint's research & development team to develop solutions that will set the standard for the next generation of collaboration platforms.

"We are honored and excited to bring Jeremy Thake into the AvePoint family," said Dr. Tianyi (TJ) Jiang, Co-Chief Executive Officer of AvePoint. "He has already shown tremendous ability to engage the SharePoint community on many different levels. His expertise as a SharePoint MVP and expansive knowledge in the field of software development will be valuable assets as AvePoint continues to help unleash the platform's full business potential for more than 8,000 customers worldwide."

"SharePoint has long been the focus of my work, as well as a deep personal interest," said Thake. "AvePoint has been fully invested in SharePoint technologies since its inception 10 years ago, and its solutions thoughtfully address the pain points businesses encounter while enabling them to take their use of the platform to the next level. The depth and breadth of AvePoint's product set is simply unparalleled in the marketplace today, and I'm thrilled to work with such a smart and passionate team."

In addition to his software development work, Thake is a co-founder of NothingButSharePoint.com, a popular SharePoint community portal—built on SharePoint 2010—that focuses on the Developer community. He also founded SharePointDevWiki.com, which is currently hosted on the NothingButSharePoint.com site, to encourage the SharePoint community to collaborate and share best practices for development. His blog, made4the.net, is regularly referenced by well-respected members of the global SharePoint community.
